

Looking for More Ways
to Serve Your Country?

FEMA

Join FEMA's National Reservist Team

National Guard members and retirees can serve fellow citizens during times of disaster and:

- ✓ Generate additional income.
- ✓ Use your skills and learn new ones.
- ✓ Expand your professional network.

FEMA needs on-call reservists in several cadres including:

Disaster Survivor Assistance

Logistics

External Affairs

Hazard Mitigation

Public Assistance

Individual Assistance

Information Technology

FEMA Reservists, Making a Difference

The Federal Emergency Management Agency coordinates and supports federal disaster response with states, territories, tribal nations and local communities.

“Anyone who is part of a National Guard or reserve structure in the military would do well in FEMA, because both are mission-centric. At FEMA our mission is to help disaster survivors.”

James Aladin
FEMA Reservist and Firefighter, Florida National Guard

- Similar to the National Guard, FEMA Reservists are called to duty and deploy to meet mission requirements.
- Most reservists are expected to travel to a disaster site within 48 hours of a request.
- Salary based on the position, background and experience.
- Travel and per diem expenses are paid.
- National Guard duty takes priority over a FEMA deployment.

For more information:

 1-866-896-8003

 FEMA-HC-ServiceDesk@fema.dhs.gov

 <http://careers.fema.gov/reservists-program>